Support the School for Curatorial Studies Venice

The School for Curatorial Studies Venice is an ambitious and challenging project conceived as a school committed to experimentation and interdisciplinary thinking. The main goals are to spread knowledge in the field of visual arts and to introduce the students to the professions related to the art world, focusing on contemporary curatorial theory and practice and contemporary museology. The staff is formed by Italian and international professionals, scholars, historians and art critics of recognized experience.

Projects to Support Donation and sponsorship opportunities are available across all programming and include:

- Each of our seasonal exhibitions organized by the students of the School are offering a total of two possible exhibitions per year. Current opportunities exist for 2019 and 2020.
- The lectures held by professionals from all over the world with ambitious contributions of the two editions of the curatorial program. Curators, artists, gallerists and professionals are invited every year.
- The School projects a Breakfast with a collector, a series of dialogues with internationally acclaimed collectors.
- A scholarship for one of the two Educational Projects organized by the school every year.
